

On the Subject of Krazy Talk

"Quote, it says 'It says, start: "It says: Quote... Quote, end quote.' Fullstop." End quote' End quote."

The module will have a screen that cycles through a bunch of messages, with four buttons at the top. These messages may be wrapped in some of the embellishments shown in the below table; In fact, it can even have multiple of them. Based on the phrases, and their surroundings, hold and release the four buttons at the top at the right times.

Each button will light up when their message is showing. This message may change throughout cycles, but the answer for that button will always be the same. Look up the phrase on the next page to get a number. Then add the numbers that are correspond to each embellishment around the message to that number. If this is greater than 10, subtract 10 until it's not. You have to hold the button when the last digit of the countdown timer is that number.

When you hold the button, the display will quickly cycle through a bunch of messages, without embellishments. Look up one of these messages in the table below (they all represent the same number). You'll need to release the button when the last digit of the countdown timer is that number. Repeat this two more times (you don't need to do all four) to solve the module.
